Robert Gordon, President & CEO

About Robert “Bobby” Gordon

ROBERT “BOBBY” GORDON is the soft-spoken, low-key, down-to-earth main driver behind the FOOTPRINTS CAFÉ brand. Since opening his first restaurant in 2001 he’s never looked back, and has led the growth, expansion and development of this now popular brand. Always innovating and creating Bobby, as he’s popularly known, believes in team work and providing the best possible services and quality food to all of FOOTPRINTS CAFÉ’s patrons and customers.

The FOOTPRINTS CAFÉ Family, Friends and Fans form the foundation upon which the brand is built and continues to grow. A lot of that is due to the quiet charm of its founder, president and CEO. He leads by example – from sweeping the front of the restaurant to fixing some fixture – no job is too big or too small and menial for him to tackle.

OUR TEAM

Basil Jones, Executive Chef

He jokingly says, “I’m cooking too long.” That’s because he’s “been in the kitchen” professionally for 32 years now – and counting. But he started way before that, back in Jamaica in his grandmother’s kitchen when he was about 15 years old. So the next time you visit Footprints Café, Brooklyn’s premier Caribbean restaurant, and you browse through its extensive mouth-watering menu loaded with tons of exotic items to choose from, rest assured that this is the brainchild of Executive Master Chef, Basil Jones.

A graduate Hocking Technical College in Ohio, Chef Basil has cooked for a long list of top-tier golf clubs, 5-star hotels and restaurants racking up a number of culinary awards along the way. Chef Basil joined the Footprints Café team in 2001. Today, he oversees all of the restaurant’s menu items, food quality and control, training of the restaurant’s cooking staff, restaurant and kitchen safety – he’s very big on that – portion controls and periodic testing and creation and testing of new menu items.
